

The Process of Funneling

The above image was something that I compiled during a pre-writing/brainstorming session early on in the process of composing my master's degree thesis. This, as well as, lessons from my teaching experience, served as the inspiration for my thesis. Thoughts related to this picture where what drove my composing efforts quite diligently during the process.